Chapter 110: The Creation of Inner Worlds and Emissaries by the Third and Fourth Clones

As the third and fourth clones of Sung Jin-Woo and Sung Su-Ho took their places in their respective domains, their innate power and understanding of the grand order led them to create inner worlds within their own bodies. These inner worlds were vast, containing infinite potential for growth, creation, and even the birth of new beings who would serve as their emissaries.

Each clone's inner world was unique, with its own essence, environment, and purpose. Within each of these worlds, the clones birthed one emissary, beings who were tasked with overseeing and maintaining the inner world's delicate balance.

Sung Jin-Woo's Third Clone

Inner World Name: Shadewind Expanse
A realm of shifting shadows and ethereal winds, where the darkness constantly shifts between states of calm and intense storms, representing the ever-changing nature of the Shadowkin. The world is full of ancient ruins, hidden structures, and shadowy landscapes that constantly evolve.

Emissary Name: Nyxion
A being of darkness and light, Nyxion is both the watcher and the guide of the Shadewind Expanse. With the power to manipulate shadows, Nyxion ensures that the flow of time and power within the inner world remains constant, preventing chaos from spreading through the shifting dimensions.

Sung Su-Ho's Third Clone

Inner World Name: Draconis Spire
A towering realm of jagged mountains, vast lava lakes, and floating islands that symbolize the might and dominance of the Dragonkin. The Draconis Spire is a world filled with ancient draconic ruins, high winds, and deep caverns where dragons reside, grow, and thrive in their own chaotic harmony.

Emissary Name: Aurelith
A majestic dragon-like being whose body crackles with fiery energy, Aurelith is a being born from the essence of the Draconis Spire itself. Aurelith oversees the stability of the Dragonkin's powers, ensuring that the essence of the dragons remains untamed yet contained, and that the realm's fiery energy is used for balance and growth.

Sung Jin-Woo's Fourth Clone

Inner World Name: Abyssal Crucible
A desolate world of dark, infernal landscapes filled with swirling mists, blackened mountains, and fiery fissures. The Abyssal Crucible is where the Shadow Lords' powers are forged and tested. A world constantly under a thick, oppressive atmosphere where time itself seems to bend and flow unpredictably, representing the infinite cycle of creation and destruction in the shadow realms.

Emissary Name: Umbrosar
A figure cloaked in dark, shifting tendrils, Umbrosar is the emissary of the Abyssal Crucible. Born from the deepest shadows and the most intense fires of the Abyss, Umbrosar is tasked with ensuring that the Shadow Lords' powers are kept in check, guiding the creation of new shadow soldiers while preventing corruption from spreading throughout the abyss.

Sung Su-Ho's Fourth Clone

Inner World Name: Infernal Expanse
A world where the ground is a never-ending sea of molten lava and volcanic eruptions, yet lush with dark, fiery flora and dense, sulfurous air. The Infernal Expanse is a chaotic land that represents the primal, untamable energy of the Fiery Dragon Lords, full of immense heat and unimaginable strength.

Emissary Name: Virelith
A fierce, armored being who commands the flames, Virelith is born from the very fires of the Infernal Expanse. His duty is to maintain the balance of power within the realm, ensuring that the fiery forces of the Fiery Dragon Lords do not consume everything but instead serve as the source of strength and purpose for the fiery soldiers and worlds.

Summary of Clones' Inner Worlds and Emissaries:

1. Sung Jin-Woo's Third Clone

Inner World: Shadewind Expanse

Emissary: Nyxion

2. Sung Su-Ho's Third Clone

Inner World: Draconis Spire

Emissary: Aurelith

3. Sung Jin-Woo's Fourth Clone

Inner World: Abyssal Crucible

Emissary: Umbrosar

4. Sung Su-Ho’s Fourth Clone

Inner World: Infernal Expanse

Emissary: Virelith

These newly created inner worlds and their emissaries are vital to the expansion and governance of the Divine Triad’s power, solidifying their dominion over their respective realms and ensuring their eternal control over the greater multiverse.